

Acknowledgements

The Madhya Pradesh Human Development Report Project has been able to fulfill its mandate well within its deadline of 180 days from the date of commencement (April 3, 1995) with the support of a multitude of people. While the project team has worked long hours for their objectives, we were greatly helped and encouraged by the cooperation and dedicated assistance of many individuals. In the course of our interaction with them, our understanding of the very notions on which we were offering our expertise deepened greatly. Formal notes such as this cannot capture our debt of gratitude to them. Still we would like to list and thank those whose contributions were vital for our efforts. The responsibility for any error and omissions is, of course, ours.

In course of our visits to the districts (and the Project team traveled to all forty-five districts in the state) we had the privilege of interacting with officials of the development administration at the district, block and village level. From them, from voluntary workers in NGOs and from representatives of the newly empowered Panchayats, we have learnt a lot regarding the processes of data generation at the grass roots level. Our interactions with patwaris, kotwars and village-level workers have given us valuable insights into the process and enterprise of development in Madhya Pradesh. This report has been greatly enriched by their contributions. We can only hope this report will reflect the magnitude of their tasks and the crucial role they play in the structure and process of human development.

We thank all District Collectors, Project Officers of DRDAs, District Statistical Officers and District informatics Officers, who gave liberally of their time, attention and resources to ensure the successful completion of this report. Here we would like to especially thank Shri D.S.Rai, Collector, Raisen District, for his total support to the project, and, in particular, towards data collection for the intensive pilot study conducted by us in Raisen district.

In Delhi, Shri Bhaskar Bhattacharjee, Shri N.R. Banerjee, and Dr. David Baker provided intellectual and bibliographic inputs. Dr. S. Mahendra Dev in Bombay gave us valuable suggestions regarding the design and format of the report. Shri S.C Behar, Shri Rakesh Sahni, Shri A.N. Asthana, Shri R.S. Sirohi, Shri R. Parasuram, Smt Amita Sharma, Shri Vivek Dhand, and their colleagues in the Government of Madhya Pradesh were most helpful in both conceptualising the design of the project and in facilitating access to data. We would especially like to thank Shri Sumit Bose and Dr. M.N. Kulkarni for guidance in reviewing the background material for the report.

In course of this study, Shri M.K. Naresh, Smt Jyoti Goliate, Shri Sultan Ahmad and their Colleagues from the Directorate of Institutional Finance were extremely helpful and cooperative. We would like to thank Shri Shamimuddin and other personnel, particularly the library staff of the Directorate of Economics and Statistics.

We thank Dr. N. Seshagiri for providing NICNET access to this project. Shri J.P. Sharma and Shri Ashutosh Pandit helped us utilise NICMail for coordination with district administrations throughout Madhya Pradesh.

Contributors from all over Madhya Pradesh have provided several case studies, which have been used in this report. We are grateful to all the contributors, and would like to especially mention Shri Harsh Mander, Shri Mihir Shah and the District Collectors of Rajnandgaon, Bhind, Betul, Raigarh, Indore, Jhabua, Jabalpur and Gwalior. Dr. T. P. Sharma and Dr. Ilina Sen have contributed important background material on health and gender respectively. We wish to thank them for supporting this project.

We wish to thank Smt. Alpana Khare for designing, report layout and publication support.

Finally, Shri R. Gopalakrishnan has been a pillar of support to the project team. We have benefited greatly from his advice, and encouragement, without which this report would not have seen the light of day.
